That means each person on the island produces over one kilogram of garbage a day! 31 we know, much of the garbage is buried under the ground in landfills. But the landfills in Taiwan are quickly 32, and it is difficult to build new ones for lack of enough land. To solve the serious problem of garbage disposal, one possible answer is recycling. According to EPA, more than 40 percent of this waste, 33 items like glass, plastic bottles, newspapers, cans, and even old TVs, can be recycled. In fact, in many countries, laws 34 and people in these countries are made to separate their garbage. Recycling has proved successful in many American, European, and Japanese cities. So what can people in Taiwan do to help 35 the garbage problem? The three Rs—reduce, reuse and recycle—are the principles to follow! We hope to extend the life of our landfills and save the earth's resources.
